

The GAMMATRON method of design results in a tube that is easy to neutralize because of its low interelectrode capacity. It is easy to drive because of its special vertical grid bar design, and it has extremely long life because of its ability to maintain a permanent vacuum of a high degree.