Radio Operators License

issued to: _____

As the holder of this license, you have the absolute right, limited only by how much power you can buy or steal, to run as much of a carrier as you possibly can, and to modulate said carrier to any degree and in any manner whether it be up, down, or incidentally sideways. This includes all voice modes and over-the-horizon RADAR.

Be my guest! Start long-winded Old Buzzard round tables in any unused bandwidth you can find. Leave some music on in the background. Believe me, even at 20dB down, incidental music sounds great when you have an 8KW carrier to back it up! Try any and all on-the-air experiments you wish, especially those that someone may suggest during a QSO or those that may have been inspired by sci-fi movies or alcohol!

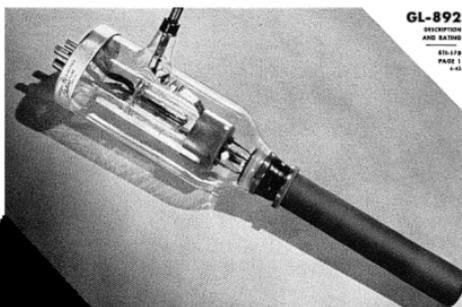

May the entrails of all who whine to the FCC be used to cool your 892 finals in the special "anode-up" mounting position!
